

Writing Your Bio: Examples

Information you could include: where you grew up, family, calling(s), profession/title/degrees, experience related to topic, interests/hobbies, qualities, favorite things

- Women and teens therapist; past and current ward Relief Society presidency member; returned missionary; advocate for women "letting go" and "being enough"
- Mother of five, three boys and two girls; Relief Society Teacher, Young Women leader, Stake Young Women counselor; served in the California San Francisco Mission, artist, food storage enthusiast, fancies living on a farm, a go getter
- husband, father, grandfather; jogger and learner; served in Elders Quorum presidency; Gospel Doctrine teacher
- assistant clinical professor, BYU School of Family Life; Marriage and Family therapist; PhD; mother of three; widow; temple worker
- husband, father; assistant professor of Church history and doctrine, BYU; PhD in curriculum and instruction; served in the Bolivia La Paz mission
- husband, father, grandfather; professor, Management Department, BYU Marriott School; emeritus Seventy; former president BYU-Idaho and Church Commissioner of Education; BA, MA and PhD in economics from Harvard
- wife, mother, grandmother; member, Relief Society general board; served with husband when he presided over the Spain Bilbao and Spain Malaga missions; avid book reader and loves antiques
- Daughter, Sister, Friend, and favorite Aunt of 26; Pediatric Nurse Practitioner; member of ward Relief Society Presidency; avid hiker and explorer.
- believer, friendly introvert; returned missionary; writer; nature lover; covenant keeper; former LDS Humanitarian employee; current child wrangler and infatuated wife
- family history and social media missionary; strives to uplift and inspire others on social media; beloved grandmother of eight